DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 09/28/2006 for new claim 21 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Cameron in view of Motosuke discloses all the limitation of claim 21 including "reduced cross-section".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cameron et al. (US 6028426) and Motosuke (JP 10-170615).

Regarding claim 1, Cameron et al. (hereinafter Cameron) discloses a method for current measurement at a potential which is at higher value than zero potential [ground 47], comprising:

measuring the voltage drop across a shunt resistance to determine the current value in the form of an analog signal, the shunt resistance being formed by a section of the conductor [portion 15 and 17] in which the electrical resistance is increased locally by reducing the cross-section of the conductor [portion 32 of the conductor];

Cameron discloses all the elements except for converting the analog signal to a digital signal; transmitting the digital signal to an evaluation unit which is at ground potential, wherein the analog signal is subjected to compression based on a non-linear characteristic of the A/D converter, and the digital signal is subjected to expansion after transmission at ground potential.

Since, digital conversion is known in the art to generate clock pulse for modulating the signal, it is common knowledge to use A/D conversion for generating the modulated transmitted signal clock pulse. Motosuke discloses an electric current measured by a shunt resistance 3 and measured data is modulated to a carrier wave signal after A/D conversion performed by modulator 4. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use A/D conversion as taught by Motosuke to modify Cameron, to obtain advantages that Motosuke has to offer (see paragraph 0004 and 0005 at page 4).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-3 and 6 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: After reviewing of the prior art references, the Examiner found that Applicants argument filed at pages 6-7 of Remarks filed on 09/28/2006 are persuasive for placing the claims 1-3 and 6 in a condition for allowance.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
